Perspectives and Outlooks

The U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics (2024) indicates that the field of social work is projected to grow by 7% over the next decade, faster than any other occupation.

Social workers in the healthcare industry are in demand to meet the needs of the aging populations and their families as they navigate medication, medical treatments and changes to their lifestyles. Due to the opioid epidemic, there is an increasing need to treat substance use disorders. Substance-abusing populations have distinct healthcare needs and frequent the emergency departments at higher rates than the general population (Mayer et al, 2023).

+7%

The field of social work is projected to grow by 7% over the next decade.

Program Outcomes

Prepare competent advanced generalist social workers with the knowledge, values and skills for engaging in individual, family, group, organization and community-planned change processes with diverse rural, vulnerable, disenfranchised and underserved populations locally, regionally, and globally.

Promote identification with the profession, continued professional development and development of knowledge and skills for advanced generalist social work practice.

Provide service to the community and promote human rights and social, racial, economic and environmental justice.

Advance social work practice through the use and development of research knowledge and skills.

Provide students with the knowledge and skills to develop and implement policy and programs and to practice from a strengths-based perspective.

Prepare students for leadership roles in the development, implementation and evaluation of services with rural and diverse populations.

“With this MSW program, we are working to build an ecosystem of talent support to enhance quality and continuity of care, increase social work retention rates and minimize overall costs for health systems. Social workers are vital to the health of our communities, small and large, and we’re proud to support these efforts by providing individuals with a more affordable and accessible opportunity to expand their skill sets, build their confidence and advance in their careers.”

- Andrew Malley, Chief Executive Officer at OpusVi

Learning Outcomes

Upon completion of this program, students will be equipped with the necessary knowledge, values, and skills to emerge as proficient advanced generalist social workers to serve healthcare settings.

Students will demonstrate the capability to engage in planned change processes at the individual, family, group, organization, and community levels to improve health outcomes.

Students will be adept at addressing the unique needs of diverse rural, vulnerable, disenfranchised, and underserved populations, both within local and regional contexts, as well as on a global scale to address public health issues.

Students will be able to contribute to the advancement of social work practice by effectively utilizing and enhancing research knowledge and skills. They will demonstrate the ability to apply research methodologies in healthcare settings, critically evaluate existing research literature, utilize ethical applications for conducting research among vulnerable populations, and contribute to the development of new knowledge within the field of social work.

Students will be prepared to assume leadership roles in the development, implementation, and evaluation of services tailored to healthcare settings serving diverse populations. They will acquire the necessary knowledge and skills to effectively navigate the complexities associated with providing services in such contexts, demonstrating competence in strategic planning, organizational management, and outcome evaluation.

“Offering this accessible and affordable MSW option in partnership with OpusVi drives our mission of empowering social work professionals in their journeys of commitment and dedication to the service of others forward. We know the widespread influence social work professionals have on their communities and we’re honored to take part in improving social health across the country.”

- Dr. Michael McCarthy, Chair and Associate Professor of Social Work at NAU

How To Apply

1. Fill out Graduate Application - <https://www.applyweb.com/northazg/index.ftl>
2. Respond to the following questions in the Personal Statement:

Describe any experiences, professional and/or personal, that influenced your selection of social work as your professional career. What interests you in social work practice in a medical setting? How do you plan to apply the skills acquired from the MSW Program into a future healthcare setting?

Discuss your understanding of the term social justice and how that applies to public health issues. How do you anticipate using the skills learned from the MSW Program to promote social justice to advocate for the needs of marginalized populations? Reflecting on your experiences serving vulnerable populations, discuss how these experiences impacted your understanding of the role power and privilege play in your own life.

Explain your rationale for selecting the NAU MSW Healthcare emphasis program. What skills and attributes can you contribute to the profession of social work? What challenges may arise for you as a graduate level student (i.e. professional writing, time management, communication, self-care, etc.)? What informal and formal supports will you employ to overcome these challenges?

The MSW program's field education requirement includes being available for the 15 hours of field placement (internship) during normal business hours, Monday through Friday, from 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Discuss the time management and organizational strategies you plan to use to balance the demands of the academic coursework, field education, and personal obligations to be successful in the MSW program. Please share your current geographical location, including the city and state you prefer to complete your Field Placement (internship).

*If you don't meet GPA criteria, include the rationale for your lower GPA and strategies to be successful as a graduate level student.
